

Template deed of assignment of intellectual property

User notes

This document is intended for use by the founders of a start up company to formally transfer intellectual property relevant to the business, products or services of the company, to that company.

Before completing this deed, we suggest that companies and their founders first work to identify and record the intellectual property that the company intends to use (or is already using) in its business, including details of who:

- ▲ created the intellectual property, and on what basis (e.g. as a founder, employee or external consultant of the company)
- ▲ owns that intellectual property and on what basis (i.e. if the company owns intellectual property because it was created by its employees in the course of their employment, this should be recorded)

This will help:

- ▲ to identify intellectual property that needs to be transferred by a founder or consultant, etc. to the company (and to properly describe that intellectual property in a deed of assignment)
- ▲ to prove ownership of the company's intellectual property in the future, e.g. in a capital raising or M&A transaction.

When using the deed of assignment, try to be as specific as possible when listing in the Schedule the intellectual property to be transferred. While the deed includes a catch-all assignment of any intellectual property owned by the founder that is relevant to the business, products and services of the company, relying on this alone may hinder you in demonstrating title to intellectual property in a subsequent due diligence process for a capital raising or M&A transaction.

This document is a generic document intended for use for a simple transfer of intellectual property. If the business uses complex intellectual property, we recommend you consult an intellectual property lawyer or patent attorney.

applicable law

This document is intended for use by companies domiciled in Southeast Asia. Because the laws in each Southeast Asian country are different, you should have the document reviewed by a local lawyer. We have suggested (as a placeholder) that the document be subject to Singapore law as this is the most common domicile of tech companies raising capital in Southeast Asia, and Singapore is well respected as a legal jurisdiction.

using this template

The User Notes and the statements in the footer below (all marked in red) are included to assist in the preparation of this document. They are for reference only – you should delete all user notes and the statements in the footer from the final form of your document.

The use of [square brackets] around black text means that:

- ▲ the requested details need to be inserted
- ▲ there are different options for you to consider within a clause
- ▲ the whole clause is optional and you need to consider whether to include it, based on the company's circumstances and the user notes.

Before finalising your document, check for all square brackets to ensure you have considered the relevant option and ensure that all square brackets have been deleted. Also, if you delete any clauses or schedules, remember to cross reference check the document.
